

Subject:Not in my back yard

Date: 2/1/2007 7:45:17 A.M. Eastern Standard Time

From: hamburg03@charter.net

You people could not survive without trucks. Its plain and simple yet so many of you who claim to be highly educated fail to realize this. The "not in my backyard" attitude you people have is arrogance at its best. Maybe all the trucks should stay away? Then we could all listen to you complain about your little town drying up and blowing away. Without trucks you could not even complain about any of this as a truck delivered the very computer you used to create this website. Its just my opinion but you should all think about your better than thou attitudes. If you don't, judgement day may turn out a little different than you planned.

LAND comment: The anonymous opinion above, shown exactly as received (unsigned), reflects a misperception that we hope is not widespread within our Laketown and Saugatuck/Douglas community. We all understand and respect the value of our trucking industry and the men and women who make it work. This is not about trucks or truckers. Our opposition is aimed at Flying J Inc. and its apparent disregard for the zoning ordinances and Planning Commission of Laketown Township, as well as its indifference toward the future well-being of this area's residents and businesses, whom those zoning ordinances are intended to protect.